Remedial Coaching Report

Academic Year 2020-21

The aim of offering Remedial Coaching is to aid students who struggle academically in enhancing their academic performance. In addition to their regular lectures, the faculties organize remedial lectures for the students on a yearly basis. In this coaching program, students have the opportunity to address any uncertainties or questions they may have, while also revisiting challenging topics. In addition, Remedial Coaching was carried out for the Academic year 2020 - 21, specifically for Semester I, II, III, IV, V, and VI. These supplementary lectures are held following the regular online lecture timetables for BMS, BAF, BFM, BCOM, and BA students. Because of the current pandemic situation, the supplementary coaching was carried out online using the Zoom and Google meet App. The students' performance had shown a noteworthy improvement by the end of the academic year.

Report on Advanced Learners and Slower Learners

The institution assesses the learning levels of the students, after admission and organizes special programs for advanced learners and slow learners.

Students enrolled in arts and commerce are identified as slow and advanced learners based on their internal class test marks and the subjects with least basic knowledge. This helps to identify the slow learners and to design special coaching sessions to bridge the gap between slow learners and advanced learners.

- The college organizes orientation programs for freshers. We introduce the students about the college facility and brief them about the subjects being learnt. In this session we also create a positive attitude and competitive spirit. This helps the slow learner to gain confidence to prepare their mind to learn new subjects.
- Bridge courses are conducted at the department level to boost the students to the level of higher education. Students who have opted secretarial practice in higher secondary face difficulty to understand mathematics. To clear the base of the subject we provide coaching sessions for those students.
- There are some students enrolled in commerce or arts from science background, we provide bridge courses of all the subjects of the respective departments.
- Students from vernacular mediums face difficulty in understanding English. For them we have conducted a course for Business Communication

Strategies adopted for slow learners

- The students who have scored average or below average marks we give them class assignments or tutorials for practice.
- Remedial classes are conducted to improve the academic performance of the slow learners. or the students participating in sports or cultural events. This helps the slow learners to improve the subject knowledge and help them to reach the level of advanced learners. Especially for practical subjects such sessions are conducted and made to solve them in the class.
- Academic and personal counseling are given to the slow learners by the tutors or mentors.

REMEDIAL COACHING Report 2021-22

With a vision to ensure holistic development, the institute adopts student-centric measures to cater to their diverse needs. With most of the students being from the vernacular medium special attention is paid towards effective curriculum delivery in multiple languages and remedial lectures in the varied subjects across all the courses. This helps to lay the foundation of the curriculum assimilation and knowledge transfer to the students. Remedial Coaching is conducted in subjects wherein the result analysis has been conducted for the students each year which are monitored by the IQAC and Examination committee. The institute provides all necessary infrastructural facilities such as an Audio-visual classrooms, reference books in the library and teacher's notes.

The broad objectives of remedial coaching are:

2. Raising their level of comprehension of basic subjects to provide a stronger foundation for further academic work.
3. Strengthening their knowledge, skills and attitudes in such subjects, where quantitative and qualitative techniques and laboratory activities are involved so that proper guidance and training provided under the programme may enable the students to come up to the level necessary for pursuing higher studies efficiently.
4. To ensure students perform well in their formative and summative tests held in each semester.
5. The students have a strong foundation over the subject and various concepts.
6. Students are capable of preparing their own notes.

This year the IQAC further pinned down in the hierarchal process ensuring effective flow of remedial coaching. The process is illustrated as below-

To pin down at student's level, this year IQAC involved a mentor- mentee mechanism to receive inputs on student's SWOC analysis. The remedial coaching committee then engulfs and transforms the information to departmental heads and finally to individual teachers. The primary role of each agency is enumerated as below -

1. IQAC: It acts as a monitoring agency devising plans and policies.
2. Mentors: Provides SWOC of students to the remedial coaching committee.
3. Remedial Coaching Committee: It frames a detailed list of subjects and teachers to be participated in the process. They also ensure information regarding remedial coaching is passed on to students.
4. Departmental Heads: The departmental heads coordinate with the individual teachers as per the list provided by the committee. The detailed framework in terms of content and pedagogy for remedial teaching.
5. Individual Teachers: The individual teachers prepare an enrolment list and deliver the remedial lectures.

1. BOOK-KEEPING

1.1 MEANING

A Business is full of activities. These may be purchase and sale of goods and properties, taking or giving a loan, etc. A businessman must note down the details of all these matters for future reference. Book-keeping basically means keeping a written record of business matters in a set of books. A business may have hundreds of transactions, day after day. The owner needs to know the cash balance, the total sales, the total expenses etc. For this, the details need to be classified. The details relating to a particular person or an item are classified and brought together under a particular 'head of account' such as Sales, Purchases, Expenses, Customers Building etc. This helps the businessman to know the Total Sales, the Total Purchases, the Total Expenses etc. Thus, Book-keeping can be defined as recording and classification of the transactions of business. The date-wise record is kept in Journal. account-wise classification is done in Ledger.

1.2 DEFINITION

1. J. R. Batliboi : Book-keeping is the art of recording business dealings in a set of books.
2. R. N. Carter : Book-keeping is the science and art of correctly recording in the books of accounts all those business transactions that result in the transfer of money or money's worth.

1.3 NEED

A business needs Book-keeping –

1. to have permanent record of all the business transactions.
2. to know the names of the customers and the amount due from them.

3. to know the names of suppliers and the amount due to them.
4. to keep records of income and expenses in such a way that the net profit or net loss may be calculated.
5. to keep records of assets and liabilities in such a way that the financial position of the business may be ascertained.
6. to have important information for legal and tax purposes.

2. ACCOUNTING

2.1 DEFINITION

1. AICPA (American Association of Certified Public Accountants): Accounting is the art of recording, classifying and summarising, in terms of money, financial transactions and events, and interpreting the results thereof.
2. AAA (American Association of Accounting): Accounting is the process of identifying, measuring and communicating economic information to permit informed judgments and decisions by users of the information.

2.2 PROCESS

The process of accounting as per the above definitions is presented in the following Table

TABLE 1 : PROCESS OF ACCOUNTING

1. Identifying Transactions : First, only those business transactions which are financial in nature are identified and selected for recording.
2. Recording in Journal : Then, the transactions are recorded in a daily book called Journal.
3. Classification of Accounts in Ledger : Next, the accountant finds out which "accounts" are involved in the transactions. "Account" means a particular item or person involved in the transaction. From the Journal, the amounts are transferred (posted) in the concerned accounts in a book called Ledger. Each account shows on the debit side (left) the benefits received, and on the credit (right) side, the benefits given. The difference between the two sides shows the balance of the account.
4. Summary of Accounts in Trial Balance : At the end of the year, a Trial Balance is prepared which shows the balances of all accounts in the ledger. It shows the closing balances of all the accounts of income, expenses, assets, debtors, creditors, capital etc. at the end of the year.
5. Summary of Income & Expenses in Profit and Loss Account : The balances of Income and Expenses Accounts at the end of the year are summarised in the Profit and Loss Account. The difference between the Income and the Expenses shows the profit or loss for the year. This profit or loss is transferred to the Capital Account of the owner.

6. Summary of Assets and Liabilities in Balance Sheet : The balances of Assets, Debtors, Creditors and Capital Accounts at the end of the year are summarised in the Balance Sheet. These balances are carried forward to the next year. In the next year, new books are opened and the accounting process begins once again.
7. Interpretation : Interpretation means forming an opinion about the figures in the accounts. Interpretation of the final accounts helps to find out (1) why the profit is high or low, (2) how the profit can be increased in future, (3) how the profit compares with the profit of the competitors, (4) whether the concern is solvent or not and so on.
8. Communicating : The final accounts are communicated to the interested parties (users such as owners, investors etc.)

3. OBJECTIVES

Book-keeping has the following main objectives (aims) :

1. Date-Wise Record: It is not possible for a businessman to remember the details of the hundreds of transactions which take place everyday. Book-keeping aims to keep a permanent written record of the details. The details are entered, date-wise, in a Daily Book called Journal.
2. Account-wise Record: The transactions relating to a particular account are spread over a number of pages in the Journal according to the dates of the transactions. There is a need to keep an account-wise record of the transactions. Through the ledger, Book-keeping aims to classify and summarise the transactions account-wise. Each Account shows at one place the summary of all transactions and the balance of a particular person or of an item of asset/income/expense.

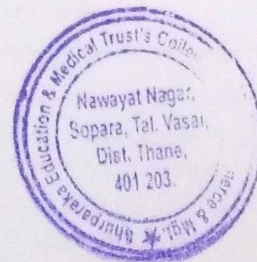

Accounting includes Book-keeping, but is much wider in scope. Accounting starts where book-keeping ends. Accounting has the following further objectives :

1. Yearly Profit or Loss: A businessman wants to know how much profit he has made. Accounting aims to compute the profit, by comparing the income with the expenses relating to a particular period such as an year. This is done by preparing the Profit and Loss Account for a year. The balances of income and expense accounts appearing in the Ledger are summarised in the Profit and Loss Account.
2. Year-end Financial Position: A businessman also wants to know his financial position - the value of his assets and liabilities; the amounts due from debtors and due to creditors and so on. This is done by preparing the Balance Sheet as at the last date of the year. The year-end balances of assets, liabilities, capital, debtors and creditors are summarised in the Balance Sheet.
3. Analyse Accounts: It is no use just preparing the final accounts - they must be analysed and interpreted. The various figures in the Accounts indicate: (a) whether profits are more or less if compared to the competitors (b) how profits can be increased (c) whether the financial position is strong or weak (d) whether the business is solvent or not and so on. Such analysis helps to improve the profitability in future.

To sum up, Book-keeping aims to record the business transactions in the Journal date-wise and classify the transactions in the Ledger account-wise. Accounting aims to report the profit or loss in the Profit and Loss Account year-wise; report the financial position through the balance sheet as at year-end; and finally, analyse and interpret the accounts, so as to improve the performance in future.

4. PERSONS INTERESTED IN ACCOUNTING

The utility (importance) of Accounting in providing the needed information to different persons is as follows:

6. Summary of Assets and Liabilities in Balance Sheet : The balances of Assets, Debtors, Creditors and Capital Accounts at the end of the year are summarised in the Balance Sheet. These balances are carried forward to the next year. In the next year, new books are opened and the accounting process begins once again.
7. Interpretation : Interpretation means forming an opinion about the figures in the accounts. Interpretation of the final accounts helps to find out (1) why the profit is high or low, (2) how the profit can be increased in future, (3) how the profit compares with the profit of the competitors, (4) whether the concern is solvent or not and so on.
8. Communicating : The final accounts are communicated to the interested parties (users such as owners, investors etc.)

3. OBJECTIVES

Book-keeping has the following main objectives (aims) :

1. Date-Wise Record: It is not possible for a businessman to remember the details of the hundreds of transactions which take place everyday. Book-keeping aims to keep a permanent written record of the details. The details are entered, date-wise, in a Daily Book called Journal.
2. Account-wise Record: The transactions relating to a particular account are spread over a number of pages in the Journal according to the dates of the transactions. There is a need to keep an account-wise record of the transactions. Through the ledger, Book-keeping aims to classify and summarise the transactions account-wise. Each Account shows at one place the summary of all transactions and the balance of a particular person or of an item of asset/income/expense.

Accounting includes Book-keeping, but is much wider in scope. Accounting starts where book-keeping ends. Accounting has the following further objectives :

1. Yearly Profit or Loss: A businessman wants to know how much profit he has made. Accounting aims to compute the profit, by comparing the income with the expenses relating to a particular period such as an year. This is done by preparing the Profit and Loss Account for a year. The balances of income and expense accounts appearing in the Ledger are summarised in the Profit and Loss Account.
2. Year-end Financial Position: A businessman also wants to know his financial position - the value of his assets and liabilities; the amounts due from debtors and due to creditors and so on. This is done by preparing the Balance Sheet as at the last date of the year. The year-end balances of assets, liabilities, capital, debtors and creditors are summarised in the Balance Sheet.
3. Analyse Accounts: It is no use just preparing the final accounts - they must be analysed and interpreted. The various figures in the Accounts indicate: (a) whether profits are more or less if compared to the competitors (b) how profits can be increased (c) whether the financial position is strong or weak (d) whether the business is solvent or not and so on. Such analysis helps to improve the profitability in future.

To sum up, Book-keeping aims to record the business transactions in the Journal date-wise and classify the transactions in the Ledger account-wise. Accounting aims to report the profit or loss in the Profit and Loss Account year-wise; report the financial position through the balance sheet as at year-end; and finally, analyse and interpret the accounts, so as to improve the performance in future.

4. PERSONS INTERESTED IN ACCOUNTING

The utility (importance) of Accounting in providing the needed information to different persons is as follows:

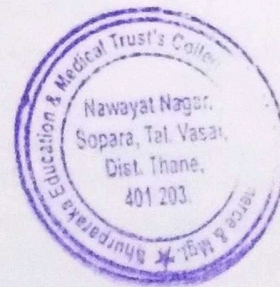

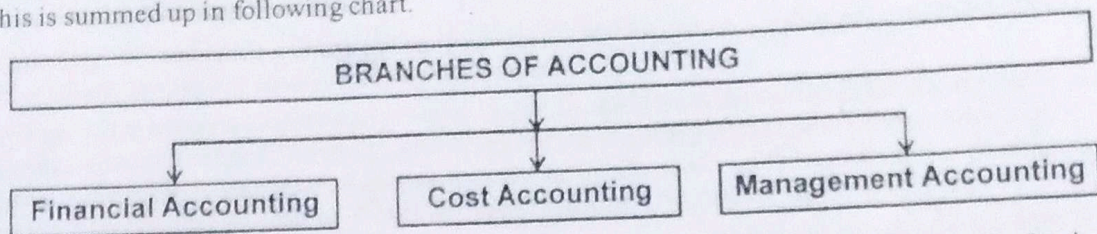

TABLE 2 : INFORMATION PROVIDED BY ACCOUNTING

No.	Who	What Type of Accounting Information He Needs
1.	Owner	Owners, who supply capital, need to know how much income is earned by using their funds.
2.	Employees	Employees need to know whether their employer is profitable as well as stable. A profitable concern will pay a good salary and a big bonus. A stable concern will employ the staff for a long time and pay them pension etc. even after retirement.
3.	Lenders	Lenders, such as banks which give loans to the business concern, need to know whether their loans and interest will be paid in time.
4.	Creditors	Creditors, who supply goods to the business concern on credit, need to know whether their outstanding will be paid in time.
5.	Customers	Customers, who purchase goods, need to know whether they can depend upon the business concern for supply of the goods over a long period of time.
6.	Government	Government needs to know how much taxes should be paid by the concern.

5. BRANCHES OF ACCOUNTING

Increase in business operations has made the management function more complex. This has given rise to specialised branches in accounting. The main branches of accounting are Financial Accounting, Cost Accounting and Management Accounting.

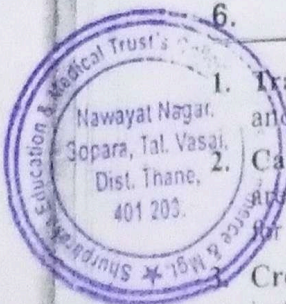

This is summed up in following chart.

- (i) Financial Accounting : Financial Accounting records business transactions in the books of accounts in such a way that profit / loss of a particular period and the financial position on a particular date can be known.
- (ii) Cost Accounting : Cost Accounting involves collection, classification and ascertainment of the cost of production, job, contract, process or operations undertaken by the firm.
- (iii) Management Accounting : Management Accounting involves the use of accounting data collected with the help of financial accounting and cost accounting for the purpose of policy formulation, planning, control and decision making by the management.

6. TERMINOLOGY

1. Transaction: Transaction means an exchange between two parties. A transaction involves 'give and take'. Transactions may be classified as Cash Transactions and Credit Transactions.
2. Cash Transaction: In a cash transaction, goods or services are exchanged for cash. Examples are purchase and sale of goods for cash, cash paid for transporting goods, machinery purchased for cash, vehicle sold for cash, and so on.
3. Credit Transaction: In a credit transaction, goods are exchanged for cash receivable or payable in future. Examples are purchase and sale of goods on credit etc. The amount of cash receivable or payable in future is called a debt. The person who owes money to the business is called a debtor. The person to whom the business owes money is called a creditor.

4. Goods: Goods mean the things, articles or commodities exchanged in a business transaction. Goods are the articles purchased, sold or produced by a businessman. Thus, books are goods for a book-seller, paper is goods for a Paper Manufacturer and so on. Sale of books by the bookseller or sale of paper by the paper manufacturer is a business transaction.
5. Services: Services mean the work done for money. Services do not involve any article or commodity. Aids to trade such as transport, administration, marketing, warehousing, accounting involve services.
6. Profit : Profit means the excess of Income over Expenses. A businessman earns profit when his income is more than his expenses. Profit = Income - Expenses. Thus, if total income from sale of goods is ₹ 50,000 and total expenses like purchase of goods, salaries, transport etc. are ₹ 40,000, profit is ₹ 50,000 - ₹ 40,000 = ₹ 10,000.
7. Loss : Loss, on the other hand, means the excess of Expenses over Income. A businessman suffers a loss when his expenses are more than his income. Thus, Loss = Expenses - Income. Thus, if Sales are ₹ 50,000 and Expenses are ₹ 60,000; Loss = 60,000 - 50,000 = ₹ 10,000.
8. Income: Income means the amount earned from sale of goods and services by the business. Examples are the money received by a businessman from sale of goods or fees received for giving services, interest received for loans given etc.
9. Expenses: Expense means the amount paid for goods or services used in the business. Examples are the money paid by the business to purchase goods, salaries paid to employees for their services, travelling expenses, interest paid on loans taken from banks etc.
10. Assets: In order to produce goods, a manufacturer must have machinery, factory, etc. Such machinery, factory buildings etc. are called assets. A trader also needs assets like a shop, a vehicle etc. for his business. Asset means property of any kind owned by a businessman.
11. Liabilities: The businessman may borrow money from Banks etc. Such loans, which must be paid back in future, are called Liabilities. Liabilities also include creditors.
12. Contingent Liabilities: Contingent Liability means a future liability. It may or may not become an actual liability. For example, Mr. A has taken a loan from bank. The Bank feels that Mr. A should pay interest of ₹ 50,000; while Mr. A feels that he should pay interest of only ₹ 30,000 as per the loan agreement. The bank files a case in the Courts against Mr. A. The liability of Mr. A to pay additional interest of ₹ 20,000 is uncertain. It depends on the decision of the Court. Such liability is called a contingent liability. It is not actually recorded in the books. It is only shown by way of a note in the balance sheet.
13. Capital: Capital means the money put in the business by the owner. Capital also includes the goods or assets brought in the business by the owner.
14. Drawings: If the owner withdraws any money, goods or assets from the business for his own use, such withdrawals are called Drawings. Drawings reduce the amount of capital of the owner. For example, a business is started by the cash brought in by the owner of ₹ 16,000. If the owners sometime later withdraws cash of ₹ 500, his capital is now ₹ 16,000 - ₹ 500 = ₹ 15,500.
15. Net Worth: Net worth is the difference between the total assets and total outside liabilities. Net Worth = Assets - Liabilities. Thus, if a business has machinery of ₹ 10,000, goods of ₹ 5,000, cash of ₹ 1,000, its total assets are ₹ 16,000. If it has a bank loan of ₹ 5,000 and creditors of ₹ 4,000, its total outside liabilities are ₹ 9,000. Its net worth is ₹ 16,000 - ₹ 9,000 = ₹ 7,000.
16. Debtor: A Debtor is a person who owes money to business. A debtor buys goods from us and promises to pay the price to us on an agreed date in future. For example, if we sell goods worth ₹ 10,000 and receive the cash immediately, it is a cash sale. If we sell goods worth ₹ 10,000 to Sham on March 15, and Sham promises to pay the amount on April 15, this is a credit sale, and Sham is our debtor. An amount due for goods sold on credit is a Trade Debt. An amount due for loan given is a Loan Debt.
17. Creditor: A creditor is a person to whom we owe money. A Trade Creditor is a person from whom we get goods or services on credit. A trade creditor sells goods to us on credit and agrees to receive the price sometime in future. For example, if we purchase goods worth ₹ 500 by paying the cash immediately, it is a cash purchase. If we purchase goods from Ram for ₹ 500 on January 10, and promise to pay the amount to Ram on February 10, this is a credit purchase and Ram is our creditor. A Loan Creditor is a person from whom money is taken on loan.

18. Expenditure : Expenditure means a payment made by a business to obtain some benefit i.e. assets, goods or services.
19. Capital Expenditure : Expenditure for obtaining an asset is known as Capital Expenditure. Capital expenditure means an expenditure having future benefits. It is an expenditure with long term use. It normally results in purchase of fixed assets (machinery, building etc.) or investments (shares etc.).
20. Revenue Expenditure : Expenditure on obtaining goods and services is known as Revenue Expenditure. Revenue expenditure or expenses means an expenditure for running the business. Revenue expenditure, as opposed to capital expenditure, has no future benefits. The items of expenditure having immediate or short-term use (less than 1 year) are treated as revenue expenditure, such as rent, salaries, travelling etc.
21. Deferred Revenue Expenditure : 'Deferred Revenue Expenditure' is that expenditure which is carried forward as it will be of benefit over subsequent period(s). It is also known as 'deferred expenditure'. To 'defer' means to postpone, to carry forward. The items of expenditure e.g. share issue expenses having medium term benefits (say 3 years) are treated as deferred revenue expenditure. The proportionate cost ( $1/3$  cost) related to current year is taken as expenses. The balance cost ( $2/3$ ) is carried forward and written off in next years.
22. Accounting Year : A business concern wants to know how much profit it has earned. Normally, profit is found out for an 'accounting year'. Accounting year is a period of 12 months, say from 1st April 2013 to 31st March 2014 for preparing final accounts. The profit and loss account for the accounting year 2013-14 will show the income, expenses and profit for the 12 months from April 2013 to March 2014. The balance sheet as at the end of the year shows the value of assets and liabilities as on the last day of the accounting year. Thus, the balance sheet as on 31st March 2014 shows the value of the assets and liabilities as on the last day of the accounting year 2013-14. The accounting year can also begin on 1st January and end on 31st December. It can be any period of 12 months.
