ANOVA Procedure: One-Way and Two Way

ANOVA is the statistical model that you use to predict a continuous outcome on the basis of one or more categorical predictor variables.

Assumptions

Analysis of Variance assumes that

- 1) the observations on Y are independent.
- 2) populations being sampled are normal.
- 3) populations being sampled have equal variances

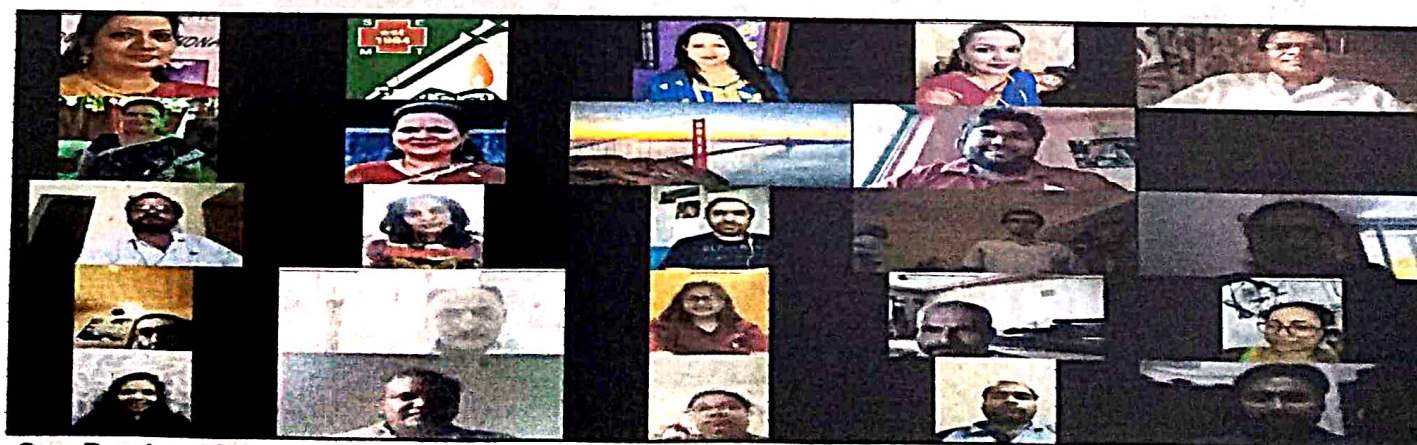

One Way ANOVA:

Analysis of variance for a quantitative dependent variable of a single factor.

This is an extension of independent t-test when the number of levels of the factor is more than two. Typical assumptions are normality and constant variance for each level.

Two Way ANOVA :

A two-way ANOVA test is a statistical test used to determine the effect of two nominal predictor(2 Factors) variables on a continuous outcome(dependent) variable. ANOVA stands for analysis of variance and tests for differences in the effects of independent variables on a dependent variable.

TOOLS TO CHECK PLAGIARISM

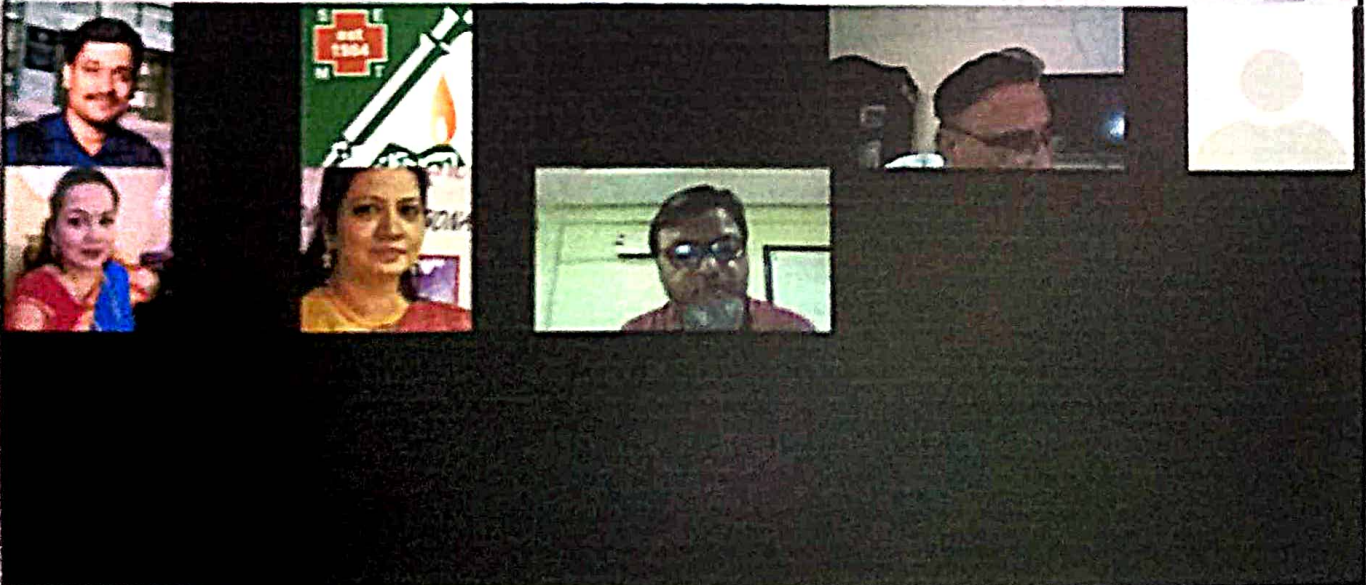

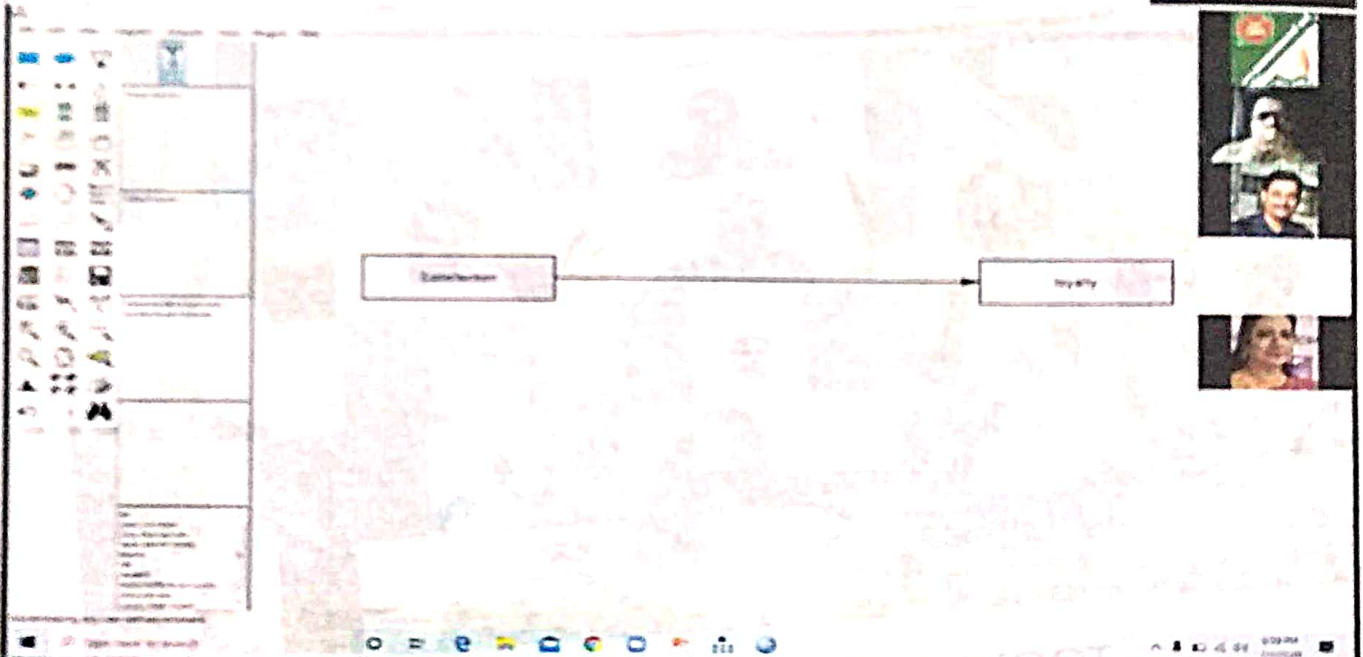

- Licensing agreements with large databases
- Checks your work against thousands of scientific publications and academic books.
- Essentially uses Turnitin software for detecting plagiarism
- While Turnitin is available to Universities, Scribbr is available to students
- The results produced by Turnitin and Scribbr can be quite similar to each other as they perform plagiarism checks against the same databases.

Four Day National Level Workshop on "Using Structural Equation Modelling (SEM) as a Research Tool" on 2nd July 2020

Structural Equation Modelling (SEM)

- Structural equation modeling is a multivariate statistical analysis technique that is used to analyze structural relationships.
- This technique is the combination of factor analysis and multiple regression analysis, and it is used to analyze the structural relationship between measured variables and latent constructs.
- Structural equation modeling (SEM) encompasses such diverse statistical techniques as path analysis, confirmatory factor analysis, causal modeling with latent variables, and even analysis of variance and multiple linear regression.
- SEM is an extension of the general linear model (GLM) that enables a researcher to test a set of regression equations simultaneously.
